ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION:

The Malone House is a single-story flanking-gable stuccoed-brick residential building with interior end chimneys. Paired Tuscan piers support a single-bay pedimented portico. The entrance is flanked by sidelights and surmounted by a transom. A well-defined frieze and end pilasters enliven the three-bay facade.

ALTERATIONS: The Malone House was restored in 1940 by the National Youth Administration for Mississippi to serve as the headquarters of the Holly Springs Garden Club.

OUTBUILDINGS: None

LANDSCAPE FEATURES: A formal garden surrounded by a brick serpentine wall is no longer extant.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE:

The Malone House is one of the most outstanding early Greek Revival residences in Holly Springs and among the first brick homes constructed in the town. It was built in 1839-40 for Mr. James Alderson, a prominent Holly Springs banker for whom Alderson Street was named. For many years, the home was owned by Alderson's daughter and son-in-law, Dr. Thomas J. Malone, whose endowment of the Franklin Female Seminary, one of the town's first schools for young women, prompted the renaming of that institution to Malone College.
