Describe present and historic physical appearance.

The Main Street National Register Historic District was listed in the National Register of Historic Places in 1979 and included seventeen buildings in a small triangular plot on a hill at the junction of Main, Locust, and Openwood Streets. Since then one of these buildings, the Monteith-Crichlow House (#1) has been destroyed. The Main Street Historic District Amendment Area includes thirty-nine buildings and enlarges the District a block and a half to the west and a half block to the north. The district's terrain is gently rolling hills on a slope with the higher end at the east. The street pattern is north-south/east-west grid. The district is comprised entirely of residential buildings the majority of which were built between 1880 and 1900 (eighteen buildings). There are four houses built between 1830 and 1840 and fourteen buildings constructed between 1910 and 1925. Only three buildings were built after 1925.

Represented in the district are intact examples of the three, four and five-bay galleried cottages, the Victorian vernacular cottage, and the Bungalow. Of the thirty-nine buildings in the district, one building, Anchuca, is already listed in the National Register of Historic Places, twenty-four contribute to the historic character of the district, eleven are marginally non-contributing, two are non-contributing and one is intrusive.

The properties included within this district have been rated as contributing or non-contributing according to the following rating system:

Contributing Elements

- P - Pivotaly Contributing- These properties are of major importance in establishing the character of the district, and would be individually eligible for the National Register if they were not elements of a district.
- C - Contributing- These properties date from the period of significance of the district and possess sufficient integrity to contribute appreciably to its sense of time and place or its architectural or thematic character.

Non-Contributing Elements

- MN- Marginally Non-Contributing- These properties date from the period of significance of the district but have suffered substantial and irreversible impairments to their integrity. They are considered non-contributing in their present state.
- NC- Non-Contributing- These properties do not contribute to the character of the district because their architectural character dates from later than the period of significance of the district or, in the case of a thematically-defined district, they do not contribute to the district's thematic character. Although these properties do not contribute to the district, they are nonetheless relatively compatible with the rest of the district in terms of scale, materials, massing, and setting.
- I- Intrusive- These properties disrupt the visual cohesiveness of the district by being incompatible in design, scale, materials, massing, and/or setting.

State significance of property, and justify criteria, criteria considerations, and areas and periods of significance noted above.

The Main Street Historic District Amendment Area is architecturally significant as a cohesive neighborhood of late 19th and early 20th century residences. The Main Street Historic District includes the earliest residential and commercial area in the City as it was surveyed and divided into lots ca. 1821. The District was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1979 because it is architecturally significant for its concentration of preserved Greek Revival residences and 19th and early 20th century commercial and public buildings.

The extension of the district is that area to the west and north of the present boundaries. The buildings in the area show the evolution of residential architectural styles, including lower income houses as well as upper income residences, from 1830 to 1925 and are intact representative examples of some of the most popular architectural types built in Vicksburg during this period. The 1925 Sanborn Insurance maps document that only three of the buildings in this area were constructed after 1925.

There are three two-story Greek Revival residences in the extension that date from the 1830s and 1840s. One of these, Anchuca, is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and was the home of Joseph Emory Davis, the elder brother of Confederate President Jefferson Davis. It is a classic example of a Greek Revival residence with a two-story, full-length front gallery.

Other architectural types represented are: an Italianate townhouse (909 Cherry Street); Victorian vernacular cottages (ex. 807 Cherry Street); shotgun (ex. 730 Locust Street); Colonial Revival (ex. 810 Adams Street); and Bungalow (ex. 726 Locust Street). A great many of Vicksburg's buildings can be broken down into four types: two (910 Adams Street), three (806 Cherry Street), four (801 Adams Street), and five-bay (1000 Locust Street) galleried cottages. These cottages maintain full-length front galleries which are generally recessed under the main roof which is usually a hip roof and is supported by columns or turned posts. The four-bay galleried cottage usually has two entrances and two double-hung sash while the five-bay has four sash and a center entrance. All four of these types are present in the extension.
